

Why Is There a $200 Pending Charge from the Budget?

Many Budget customers ☎ +1 8776844354 notice a $200 pending charge on their bank or credit card statement after renting a car ☎ +1 8776844354. While it can be alarming at first, this charge is usually a temporary authorization hold, not an actual fee ☎ +1 8776844354. Understanding why it appears can help ease concerns and avoid unnecessary calls to your bank ☎ +1 8776844354.

For immediate clarification or assistance, you can contact Budget customer support at ☎ +1 8776844354.

---

What Does the $200 Pending Charge Mean?

The $200 pending charge is generally a security deposit or pre-authorization. Budget places this hold to cover potential costs such as:

- Fuel replacement if the tank isn't full
- Extra mileage or extended rental charges
- Late return fees
- Minor vehicle damage or cleaning
- Tolls or traffic violations

This amount ensures that the Budget can recover any unexpected costs ☎ +1 8776844354, but it does not mean you have been charged $200. Once the rental is completed without additional fees, the hold is released ☎ +1 8776844354.

---

When Will the Pending Charge Be Released?

The release time varies depending on your payment method and bank:

- Credit cards: Usually 3–7 business days (can take up to 10)
- Debit cards: Typically 7–14 business days or longer

Debit card holds often take longer to drop off compared to credit card holds ☎ +1 8776844354.

---

Can the $200 Pending Charge Become a Final Charge?

Yes, under certain circumstances, the hold may convert into a permanent charge, such as:

- Returning the car late
- Not refilling the fuel tank
- Vehicle damage or excessive dirt
- Tolls, tickets, or other additional fees
- Optional services purchased during the rental

Always review your final rental receipt or call ☎ +1 8776844354 if you are unsure why part of the hold was applied.

---

Tips to Avoid Surprises with Budget Holds

- Return your vehicle on time
- Refill the gas tank before returning
- Inspect the car and take photos of any existing damage
- Remove personal items from the vehicle
- Review your rental agreement for any pre-authorizations

Proper planning can prevent unexpected charges and disputes.

---

Conclusion: What You Should Know About the $200 Pending Charge

The $200 pending charge from Budget is usually a temporary authorization hold and not a fee 📞 +1 8776844354. It protects the rental company against potential extra costs 📞 +1 8776844354. Once your car is returned in good condition and all terms are met, the hold is typically released 📞 +1 8776844354.

If the pending charge remains longer than expected, contact 📞 +1 8776844354 to clarify your account status.

---

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

Is the $200 pending charge refundable?

Yes, if no additional fees apply, the hold is released once the rental is complete 📞 +1 8776844354.

Why does the Budget place a pending charge?

It serves as a security deposit to cover potential costs like fuel, damage, or late returns 📞 +1 8776844354.

How long does it take for the pending charge to disappear?

Credit cards: 3–7 business days; Debit cards: 7–14 business days or more 📞 +1 8776844354.

Can the pending charge turn into a permanent fee?

Yes, if extra charges apply due to fuel, damage, or late returns 📞 +1 8776844354.

Does the pending charge appear on all Budget rentals?

The amount may vary depending on location, vehicle type, and payment method 📞 +1 8776844354.

Who do I contact if the $200 charge doesn't disappear?

Call Budget customer support at 📞 +1 8776844354 for assistance.